I recently had the privilege of interacting with several teachers and students from Crest Secondary, a school that specialises in the Normal (Technical) course.

As I reflect on my school life, I feel that there were many teachers who believed in their students and wanted to help them strive to achieve. A minority did the opposite; unfortunately, this has a great impact on students.

When I spoke to the Crest teachers, I was amazed at how motivated they are. They showed me what it means to put heart and soul into one's work, by taking an interest in their students' lives and genuinely believing in them.

The teachers go beyond what is expected of them, often putting in extra hours to care for their students at a personal level.

Teachers have tremendous influence over their students. With teachers at Crest Secondary who are willing to invest such time and effort, it is only a matter of time before the fruits of their labours emerge.

A reader wrote in to the Today newspaper to share how much he enjoyed interacting with our Crestans and teachers. Thank you for your compliments! It is nice to know that our hard work is appreciated!
